Terry Turrentine

My entire life I have been interested in rocks. My career began by helping my cousin collect Permian aged flagstone footprints found in the local flagstone. My cousin then introduced me to the Tucson Gem and Mineral show where we marketed the stones. I've now participated in 19 shows there. About six years ago, I discovered the beauty of gemstones, crystals and mineral specimens and have been totally mesmerized ever since. I began by collecting stones at a pay-to-dig site where I found tourmaline, aquamarine, kunzite and quartz crystals along with other mineral specimens.

Soon I found that the best way to sell them to finance my habit was to wrap wire around them and present them as jewelry. I found a wire style that I admired and bought the DVD to learn that style. After making a few dozen pieces I set out to invent my own style. This was both challenging and quite rewarding and I do believe that I have developed what is a totally unique style. My wraps are meant to emphasize the stone and not the wire. I do my best to keep the wire to a minimum, while making the piece both elegant and strong. I enjoy working with everything from precious and semi-precious cut stones, to crystal and mineral specimens. The stone "energies" are amazing and I strive to create fine jewelry out of every piece I set. I learn more every day.

Terry's beautiful jewelry pieces are in the MSCO gallery. You can meet Terry in the gallery on Saturdays, contact him by phone at (323) 834-8374 or email terryaturrentine@gmail.com.

WELCOME!

MSCO Welcomes New Members

Christine Nicole is a Medium, Psychic, Intuitive Advisor and Life Coach. She offers phone readings and private sessions. She is also an event planner and the founder of Intuitive Kids Workshops.

Master Michael Cameron will be offering Nei-Kung, Tui-Na, Qi-Gong, Reflexology and much more. Techniques that are designed to heal and increase your Chi energy. He will also be offering classes teaching Nei-Kung and Tui-Na.

Marie Howell integrates a lifetime of creative and spiritual work into her sacred feminine acrylic paintings and found object sculptural pieces. Marie's art offers a magical and mystical glimpse into the healing, beauty, and transformation

"There are many things to be grateful "for" but, as I ripen with the seasons of life, the many reasons blend into a sacred mystery. And, most deeply, I realize that living gratefully is its own blessing."

that is possible when we encounter the inner wisdom and truth of our heart and soul.

We're thrilled that Robin Leiski has returned to MSCO with her intuitive and insightful graphic artwork and paintings. Bill Leiski, also joins us with his intricately puzzled wooden boxes. Enjoy delving into their amazing works in the MSCO Gallery! Cathleen Kapiwoda will depict your Spirit Guide (Angel, animal totem or nature spirit) on wood or canvas to enhance and compliment aspects relevant to you and your life experiences. It is not unusual for someone to have more than one guide as each portray different characteristics that are pertinent to the subject. Their purpose is to Help, Protect, Educate, Heal and Inspire.

Mountain Spirit Co-Op celebrates our 10-Year Anniversary at the November 4th Friday Art Walk!

Reflecting back, we remember the idea of MSCO coming into fruition ten years ago this November, and, with seven amazing people, opening in our tiny second floor space in the Masonic Temple Building. We were in that space for two years, growing and expanding with new members, new ideas and new dreams when we were offered a chance to expand and move to a bigger space on the first floor. This space has given us more healing rooms for all of our practitioners offering their talents and gifts, a bigger gallery to display and show artistic expression, extra rooms to hold amazing classes and events and even space for a lending library. We Are So Blessed.

In these past ten years, many people have walked through our door: new members, clients, customers and friends experiencing our gallery and healing rooms to shop, receive a session, come for an event or a class, or just pause for a sense of peace and community. We are grateful for the thousands of you, all who have played a role in supporting MSCO in some way.

Walk-ins welcome

As members of the Mountain Spirit Co-Op, we have gained lifelong friends, and have benefitted from many short conversations and experiences with those of you just passing through for brief moments. We have watched each other have so many different experiences of growth, sometimes through both challenges and celebrations, and we have always been there for each other under any circumstance. MSCO has remained an open and loving playground for all beliefs, religions, genders, faiths, All of it, since the beginning, and we will hold this integral space forever. We have all worked together to create a space that embraces All That Is and are so grateful for all of the blessings we have received. We are looking forward to serving and celebrating with the Community, the World, the Planet, and the Universe. Please join us as we celebrate 10 years of this amazing experience with you on November 27th at 5:30pm during the 4th Friday Art Walk where we will be offering live music and refreshments!

Mindful Nutrition

David Clay - (928) 458-5577

Yoga is the science of uniting mind, body, and spirit. The consistent practice of Yoga eventuates in purification of the body, emotions, and thoughts. Hatha Yoga facilitates this by helping the practitioner live mindfully so that every action is carried on consciously and deliberately. Eventually old personality habits are replaced by ways of being that are influenced by the Soul. This results in making better conscious choices regarding how we live.

The Yoga practitioner encourages the physical body to come into balance by the performance of postures linking breath with movement, harmonizing mind and breath, meditation and healthy nutrition. In a world bombarded with commercials that encourage unhealthy diets, the yogi is empowered with the ability to make better conscious choices. She or he learns to live mindfully and deliberately. The yogi learns to listen to the body and becomes sensitive to what it needs and what it doesn't need. (The link to David Clay's article is <http://mountainspiritco-op.com/mindful-nutrition/>)

CHANGE

Lovingly by Nivare' - (928) 856-2823

CHANGE - This word more times than not conjures up fear, resistance, something one may not be comfortable with or like. What if this change, whatever it may be, on whatever level one maybe feeling it, is truly good and out of love. What if it was all to open your heart more, to become more of who you truly are, to release that which you are not or have created out of fear? What if you could embrace this change with Gratitude as being Amazing, Wonderful and Full of Love?

As one breathes the air yet cannot see it so are you always surrounded by My Love even if you do not feel it. What if your perceptions of who you are were to change to what I Am of Life? Break the mirrors you have placed before you to see yourself and have allowed others to tell/show you who you are - this is an outside reflection not the Light of Me you are within. Can you step beyond your box created to see the vista of all that is? Let My Love transmute any illusion of fear that arises for this is of your own creation. It is time My Children to come together and know you are as one. The identities you have chosen may no longer serve you nor be who you are. It is in being in the present, not attached to a past nor future, you may now be and do all things imagined as you choose, for in your Highest Truth and Wisdom you may harm no one, nor thing.
